Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Glendale Press Is Satisfied With Its Work On Taxes

WE are satisfied. Glendale can now go ahead without having to carry the handicap of a high tax rate.

The city council at its meeting last night set the tax rate at $1.10 per hundred dollars, this being a compromise figure.

If some of the council members had seen fit to base the rate in line with the argument used by them to keep the rate $1.14, the rate would have been $1.00 instead of $1.10. However, as we have already said, we are satisfied.

We do not know how much credit our readers will give us for the work we have done toward securing a low tax rate. It has practically been a lone fight of ours for the benefit of our city.

* * *

IN the face of abuse of all kinds hurled at us and threats of boycotting we have kept steadily at it with last night's result as the reward. A study over just what has been obtained clearly demonstrates the fact that we have been fully justified in the position we have taken. In taking a check of rates set in thirteen localities in our immediate neighborhood we find that while last year Glendale's taxes were next to being the highest, this year we have the lowest rate of all with only Burbank pushing us for the honor. This table of comparison is shown elsewhere on this page.

* * *

THAT you may fully appreciate the saving made by the new rate and through other means a few figures might prove interesting.

This year's property valuation for Glendale is $30,645,794.00 or $29,726,420.18 with 3 per cent deducted to cover delinquent taxes, although no allowance was made last year. If this year's rate was the same as last year's $460,759.51 would have been collected in taxes and if the meter tax, which the Glendale Press was instrumental in having eliminated, was still in force, $44,675.40 additional would have been collected. These two amount to $505,434.91, or over one-half million dollars.

* * *

WITH this meter tax eliminated and a rate of $1.10 set the total tax amounts to only $326,990.06, a saving of $178,444.85. That's the reason we say we are satisfied. How about you?

* * *

THIS tax schedule also gives very little consolation to those advocating annexation. The districts recently annexed have had the rates increased to a figure that talks pretty loud. Eagle Rock, the last to annex, having had the rate increased from $1.33 last year to $1.71 this year. In talking today to the Los Angeles County Auditor he told us that the rate on the county would most likely be lower and flood control and school rates about the same. So Glendale citizens may rest with the knowledge that notwithstanding claims that have been made—our taxes will be lower.

$1.10 TAX RATE FIXED BY THE CITY COUNCIL AFTER LONG SESSION

Compromise Is Reached Between Controller and Councilman Hall in Dispute Over Amount Needed to Meet Budget

MEMBERS OF BOARD MAKE SPEECHES

Kimlin Points to Low Bonded Indebtedness of the Community and Challenges Comparison With Any Other of Like Size

In a prolonged session of the committee of the whole Monday night, council members reached an agreement on a tax rate for Glendale of $1.10, which was a compromise between the figures recommended by Controller Saulsberry at the last meeting ($1.12) and the rate proposed by Councilman Asa Hall ($1.08). It was divided as follows: 94c for municipal purposes, 9c for library, 7c to 8c for sinking fund for interest and redemption of bonds.

The tax rate will vary in different sections of the town, according to the bond issues for which they are liable. Thus in the heart of the city, west Glendale and Verdugo Woodlands the rate will be $1.10, in the former city of Tropico $1.11, in Grand View and Kenneth road $1.08 and in the latest Flower street addition but $1.03.

Technical reasons were advanced why the rate for bonds could not be lowered. It was declared districts could not be combined in such a way that a tax of a fraction of a cent, which would be sufficient to cover the need, could be levied. There will be a surplus in all sinking funds for bonds, declared Councilman Hall. In one case, for fire protection bonds, the money realized will be sufficient to take care of redemption and interest payments for five years, he indicated.

After the amended resolution had been introduced by Councilman Hall and unanimously adopted, each council member made a little speech, Councilman Davis calling the attention of the audience to the fact that the bonded indebtedness of the city outside of public service bonds which are taken care of by the income from the public service department, is but $94,500. Said he:

"We have practically enough money in the reserve fund to take care of this if Glendale should want to dissolve and pay up everything we owe and have quite a sprinkling left. We have enough money in the reserve fund, if we could use it for that purpose, to practically retire all the bonds against the city.

"This was the recommendation of Mr. Saulsberry. I was held up as a 'high binder' in the newspapers and I said I would back Mr. Saulsberry in his recommendation, whatever it was."

Mayor Robinson said: "I want to give the entire city council credit for the work they have done on this matter. Mr. Hall has worked on this tax rate and tried to make it lower than $1.10. He has worked with Mr. Saulsberry. Mr. Hall was bound to get it down and Mr. Saulsberry was bound to have enough to bury us if anybody died, or to take care of any flood that might come pouring down Brand boulevard. The city of Van Nuys did not have money enough to remove the mud brought down in its flood for a year.

"Last week Mr. Horn suggested that Mr. Hall and Mr. Saulsberry fight it out some more, and we have gotten it down to $1.10. Los Angeles has a rate of $1.58, Eagle Rock a rate of $1.71, Hollywood $1.44, against Glendale's $1.10. We feel pretty happy and if anyone in this great big family loses a pair of shoes we will have a little reserve to help them out. It will be sufficient even if the rains do come down Brand boulevard and scatter mud. It will not be like Van Nuys. The municipal rate is only 94c to take care of this big city."

Applause followed this congratulatory speech and Councilman Davis again took the floor to say that 4c of the tax rate was to pay bonds for street improvements in front of schools, that but for this expense assumed by the city the rate would be $1.06.

Councilman Kimlin said: "I think it would be interesting to make a few comparisons. I would like to find another city of 42,000 population that has a bonded indebtedness of only $94,500 that the people are being assessed to pay for."

TRACT OFFICE IS GRANTED PERMIT

There was a little division of opinion between the building department and the city council relative to a permit which had been refused by the building department for a temporary real estate office at the end of Los Feliz road and Glendale avenue by Kemper Campbell, who is marketing a small tract there. He explained that it would be an attractive structure and on motion of Councilman Kimlin the permit was granted for 90 days.

ELKS GIVE EIGHT THE REAL WORK

Jazz Orchestra Makes Its First Appearance at Lodge Meeting

Initiation of a class of eight new members took place at the regular meeting of Glendale lodge of Elks, No. 1289, held Monday night, when the work was put on for Wm. M. Chapman, W. T. Gilliam and J. A. Hughes of Glendale; James F. Chatham of San Fernando, James E. Lamphear of Eagle Rock, Frank H. Southwick of Van Nuys, Glade L. White of Lankershim and Howard C. Woods of Burbank.

A feature of the meeting last night was the first appearance of the Elks' jazz orchestra, which has been evolved out of the regular orchestra and band. The jazz orchestra was represented last night by about a dozen pieces and they played only jazz music. This made quite a "hit" with the 150 members of the lodge present and it is expected that it will be made a regular feature of the meetings in the future.

The usual vaudeville program and lunch followed the regular business session.

Harry M. Ticknor of Pasadena has been honored by the Elks grand lodge, by electing him to the second highest office, that of grand esteemed leading knight, and tonight there will be a reception given in his honor at the Pasadena Elks club. This will be attended largely by the officers of all the Elks' lodges in Southern California. The principal officers of the lodges have been invited to attend a banquet at the Hotel Vista Del Arroyo, Pasadena, preceding the reception. Glendale Elks will be represented by Exalted Ruler James Apffel and a number of his corps of officers.

BERT WOODARD BUYS $50,000 PROPERTY

Dr. Jessie Russell Puts Through Deal at Wilson and Maryland

The Press is informed that another big real estate transaction has been consummated this week in the sale to Bert P. Woodard of the northwest corner of Wilson and Maryland for a reported consideration of $50,000. The details of the transaction, it is said, were worked out in the office of Dr. Jessie Russell. It is understood the purchase was made for investment.

POLICE AID SLEEPER

The hospitality of a cell at police headquarters at 2:55 a. m. today was given Tom Ptacek, reported as a "sleeper" from Chicago. He was released this morning.

COUNCILMAN DAVIS TAKES ISSUE WITH CITY CONTROLLER

There was quite an argument at the council meeting Monday night over the request of Controller Saulsberry for the transfer of $3050 from the reserve fund to cover maintenance and deterioration of automobiles in the police department for one year, adding machines and other minor expenses. Councilman Davis declared these were expenses for which provision should have been made in the budget fund, that the "unappropriated reserve" as he chooses to call it, was never intended to cover such regular expenses. Controller Saulsberry agreed to a six months' appropriation and on that all councilmen except Davis were disposed to compromise.

PROTEST THE VERDUGO GAS MAIN BONDS

Woodland Citizens Ask Relief From Further Taxation

A matter which came before the city council Monday night and which drew a considerable attendance from Verdugo Woodlands concerned a petition from a large number of residents in that section of the city protesting against the continued levying of taxes to pay interest on bonds voted in the sum of $50,000 to provide gas service in that district against which an injunction was issued. The money realized from the sale of the bonds has never been used. It is in bank awaiting action by the city. The petition urged that "instead of attempting to tax us further that you at once offer to pay all money now the sale of bonds and whatever interest the city has received from the banks to whatever persons the court decides should have it and that you make every effort to have a decision of the court in this case rendered promptly."

Councilman Davis reviewed the history of the matter, how after the council was enjoined from spending the money the gas company went ahead and put the gas in anyway without taxing the property owners. He declared the council could do nothing with the money without an order of court and considering the fact that Verdugo residents had escaped paying the face of the bonds, they ought to be cheerful about paying the interest until such time as the money can be refunded.

Mr. Crocker, who presented the petition, said it was his understanding that the Staats company, which bought the bonds, would willingly surrender them for the principal and bank interest.

Councilman Horn called attention to the injunction suits filed against the city in connection with the matter and said: "We could cut off the interest if we could go to the courts and have them cancelled, but we have to wait for the hearing on this suit set for November 3 and that is the reason why you are going to be compelled to pay interest on these bonds until after November. Would it not be advisable for some of you to see this individual and ask her to withdraw this suit thereby saving to this community this interest?"

As the petition was accompanied by a poster announcing a meeting of the Verdugo Improvement association to discuss this and other matters, to be held Wednesday evening in the pavilion at Hermosita drive and Ramona, the council instructed Assistant City Attorney Tarr to attend the meeting and explain the situation to any persons there who were not in attendance on the council meeting.

SEWER PLANS BEING DRAWN IT IS SAID

Councilman Horn Explains Requirement of L. A. City Attorney

TO MAKE PROGRESS

Indication of Successful Negotiations Seen in Big Building

The comparison of the tax rate just fixed for Glendale of $1.10 and the Los Angeles rate of $1.58 unexpectedly raised an inquiry as to the status of the negotiations with Los Angeles relative to sewer facilities.

Councilman Hall stated that 33c of the Los Angeles tax rate was levied to take care of bonded indebtedness which would have to be assumed by any city annexing to it.

Mr. Person from the audience protested that the 33c represented perhaps improvements Glendale lacks. "Have we sewers?" said he.

"Has all of Los Angeles sewers?" Mr. Hall replied.

"It has not," answered several members of the council.

Mr. Person explained he was not an annexationist but he believed in being fair, saying: "I am against sitting here and knocking Los Angeles when we are asking favors from her."

Mayor Robinson hastened to explain that the relations between the city council of Glendale and the council of Los Angeles are most friendly and the negotiations for a sewer will be pushed as soon as councilmen return from vacations [illegible] proposition."

Councilman Horn said: "As I understand the matter, such a contract is difficult to draw from a legal standpoint. When the city attorney of Los Angeles came to draw his contract he found the best way and probably the only way to make it legal was to have it accompanied by a set of drawings to which it would refer. Therefore, the two departments have worked the thing out and are practically ready, but when it comes up for consideration, we want all our friends on the council to be there."

Mayor Robinson: "I think they will give us this permit. They will own the sewer. We will give it to them to use for Eagle Rock or Burbank perhaps, but we will use it, too."

Councilman Horn: "The Security Trust and Savings Bank you may depend, did not start its big building until it was pretty sure sewers were coming. Let's get together with these towns around here and cut out knocking Los Angeles."

HACKENSCHMIDT IS TO WORK OUT AT HI GYM

In order that fight fans may know what to expect when John Hackenschmidt meets Bull Montana here Labor day, the big Glendale grappler has announced his intention of going through a workout Thursday afternoon in the high school gymnasium. Hack will bring his wrestling partner from Los Angeles to demonstrate the effectiveness of a few pet holds. The exhibition is scheduled for four o'clock.

From the opposing camp in Hollywood comes the report that Bull Montana is dividing his time between manicuring his cauliflower ears and perfecting a new toe hold which he intends to use on the Hefty Hack.

The coming match between the two famous screen heavyweights already has created interest among the members of the Hollywood film colony. A number of the movie folks have spoken for tickets and are expected to be at the ringside when Announcer Royal goes through the formalities of an unnecessary introduction.

All details for the American Legion wrestling and boxing show, which will be staged in the Press building auditorium next Monday night, have been perfected. The advance sale of tickets continues briskly, according to the report of Lester Marston, in charge of the seat sale. The demand for seats indicates that the S. R. O. sign will be hung out long before the curtain goes up on the big fight show, he says.

38 MILES OF NEW WATER MAIN LAID

That 38 miles of 4, 6, 8 and 10-inch water pipe was laid in the city of Glendale last year was the statement of one of the members of the city council of Glendale at the meeting Monday night when the question of Glendale's greatness and its tax rate were being discussed. Its population was given as 42,000 by councilmen. This statement was challenged by Harry James, who wanted proof which he could distribute on his travels.

SYCAMORE CANYON TO BE IMPROVED

Only Six Per Cent of the Frontage Protests Profile Maps

Action of far-reaching importance to a section of the city which has been seeking the improvement for many years, was taken Monday night when the city council after approving a series of profile maps of Sycamore canyon voted for the improvement of Sycamore Canyon road, after the city engineer had reported that protests against the improvement represented less than six per cent of the frontage.

Mayor Robinson pronounced it a great step forward for the east side to redeem this outlet which had been a wash ever since he could remember. The improvement which has been sought for some 13 years is said to have cost the city about $6000 in proceedings which have been started over and over again only to be abandoned because of fierce protests against the expense.

The improvement will extend as far south as Acacia. At one time the proposition contemplated makheavily paved as to afford a wider way on either side and a crown in the middle for a trolley car which the Pacific Electric had promised to operate as a loop provided the right of way carried it to Brand. Options at one time were secured for an outlet which would practically bring it to the present location of the Pacific Electric bus station at Brand and Cypress, but favorable action was so long delayed the options expired and the fund which had been raised to secure the options was lost.

GLENDALIANS MISS DEATH BY CLOSE MARGIN

H. L. Finley had an experience coming home from the synod at Asilomar that was about as close to death as he is likely to get short of dissolution. He was motoring home with Tom Holden, Dr. W. D. Landes and Rev. S. G. Livingston and Mr. Landes was driving. At Avoca a Whittier lady, who was in front of them driving a Ford sedan, stopped without giving a signal, til too late to stop and so turned to the right where it chanced there was a big fill which was Dr. Landes did not observe it unsoft. The ground gave way and the car plunged down sixty feet, rolling over and over. In the last plunge all four men were spilled out and found themselves distributed beside the car, which fell on a heap of junk and became a wreck.

Most of the men were merely bruised. Mr. Finley suffered a fractured rib or two, but was able to come to his office Monday afternoon, marvelling that he was alive and deeply thankful.

The car was so completely destroyed that it was sold on the spot as junk. It belonged to Mr. Landes.

In the same office with Mr. Finley are Messrs. Preston and Hart, his associates in the realty business. Mr. Hart reports that his son Charles fell from a bicycle on the grass in his own yard and broke his arm, which is now in a sling. He and Mr. Finley think the ways of providence in the matter of accidents are certainly mysterious.

A telephone message to Dr. Landis Monday night revealed the fact that he has been confined to his home ever since the accident on account of a broken wrist.

HELD ON SUSPICION

At 2:30 a. m. today Lee McHenry was picked up at San Fernando and Doran street by police officers on patrol and brought to police headquarters as a suspect. He is being held for investigation.

RESULT OF GLENDALE DAILY PRESS FIGHT FOR LOW TAXES SHOWN IN VIVID COMPARISONS

Lowest Rate of Thirteen Communities Is Secured Through Unaided Effort to Obtain Efficient Taxation and Credit for Last Year's Excess

	Last Year	This Ye
Glendale	$1.55	$1.10
Burbank	1.13	1.14
Pasadena	1.18	1.28
Hollywood	1.08	1.44
San Pedro	1.10	1.46
Alhambra	1.53	1.47
Lankershim	1.22	1.52
Owensmouth	1.23	1.55
San Fernando	1.69	1.55
Los Angeles	1.26	1.58
Sawtelle	1.22	1.58
Eagle Rock	1.33	1.71
South Pasadena	1.79	1.79

The direct result of the campaign of the Glendale Daily Press to secure a reduction of taxes for the citizens of Glendale, culminating last night in the declaration of $1.10 rate here by the city council, a compromise brought about by recognition of the truth of the Glendale Daily Press figures, is shown here in a comparison of that rate with those of a dozen other communities.

The comparison shows that owing to the protest of the Glendale Daily Press, the councilmen reduced the rate 45c a hundred from that of last year. It shows that the Glendale Daily Press was able to secure a rate lower by 48c per hundred than that of Los Angeles, which last year was 29c lower than Glendale.

The following table speaks volumes for itself to every thinking taxpayer in Glendale, who has been watching the Glendale Daily Press, alone, of the two newspapers in Glendale, fighting in the interest of lower taxes.

OUTSIDE STUDENTS TO PAY FOR HIGH ADMISSION

Trustees Fix Rate for Tuition of Glendale School

At a meeting of high school trustees held Monday afternoon, the applications of Eagle Rock, the Atwater Tract and Angelus Tract to receive their students in Glendale High the coming year, were considered and the board went on record as being willing to receive them on condition that the Los Angeles board of education would reimburse the Glendale board for the difference between actual maintenance cost and that allowed by the county and state.

This will be, approximately, $85 per student, for the entire school year. As it was understood that this will be satisfactory to the Los Angeles board, the clerk of the board, Dr. H. V. Brown, was instructed to request the county counsel to draw up a contract between the two boards covering this situation, with the understanding that the contract is to cover but one year.

Trustees present were President H. W. Yarick, Clerk H. V. Brown, A. W. Tower and Thomas D. Watson.

FRANK ECHOLS TO BUILD FINE HOME

Monday's biggest permit, according to city hall records, was taken out by Frank Echols, the druggist, for a one-story residence and garage 34 by 70 at 711 Mountain street, to cost $12,000. The application states it will have a stucco exterior and composition roof.

JUDGE LOW HEARS THREE CASES TODAY

Two cases were set for hearing before Judge Lowe at the city hall this morning at 10 o'clock. The defendant in the first one was Joseph Fish, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquors.

The second case was against W. E. Askew, charged with colliding with an auto in which Felix Nunez and family were riding and failing to stop and render assistance.

Both are preliminary hearings and both are felonies. If the evidence justifies Judge Lowe will certify them to the higher court for trial.

LITTLE GIRL IS REPORTED MISSING

Phillis Hauser, a four-year-old girl in blue coveralls, was reported missing at 11:45 Monday morning from 531 West Oak. As the blotter at police headquarters contained no further record the supposition is the child was found. The desk sergeant says the loss is always reported but seldom the finding.

MATERIAL DELAYS HI COMPLETION

To Be Finished November 1, Except Section of Auditorium

FIXTURES DELAYED

Firm Disappointed Because of Inability to Close Sept. 25

To secure authentic information in regard to progress on the new high school plant and prospects for its completion an effort was made this morning to interview the contractor, George Mittry, of the North Pacific Construction company. He was not to be found on Verdugo Road, having gone to the little job in connection with the Grand View school for which he took the contract, but his foreman of interior finish, Frank French, was on duty and said:

"On November first it will all be finished except a section of the auditorium, but that does not mean that the grading of the grounds will have been finished.

"We have enough men to do the work but cannot get materials—inside mill work and fixtures. That is what is holding us back. So heavy are the demands upon the mills they cannot turn out their product fast enough. We have had about five different gangs employed on finishing work and then couldn't get materials and had to let them go. That means loss and expense.

"This firm would have had this job finished September 25 if it could have had the material to work with. The delay isn't its fault. It didn't promise it; that is it is not under bond, but it did agree to bend every effort to that end.

"It is a new firm in California but have done a lot of big work in Idaho. The delay is a great disappointment to the members of the firm for they wanted to make a record of this job as a matter of advertisement. They have another school job of $750,000 at Hollywood and Beverly Hills. They have a year in which to do it. I have been with the firm ten years."

NO C. OF C. MEETING TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Because so many members are out of the city, there will be no meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce tonight.

HOW NEXT YEAR'S SYNOD CAME TO GLENDALE

David Black Tells How the Big Assembly Was Secured

David Black, who was mainly responsible for the bringing of the Presbyterian synod's annual meeting to Glendale next year, told a Daily Press reporter today how it all happened. He said Long Beach and Santa Monica both wanted it but the former city had given no formal invitation, and one of the delegates felt that he wished to take the responsibility of giving one without first consulting all of the ministers of the denomination there first, and all were not at Asilomar. Santa Monica had given a formal invitation but there was no other church located near enough to that of the Presbyterians to provide for overflow and extra meetings. Mr. Black urged upon his fellow delegates that Glendale accept an invitation to the delegates to met in the fastest growing city in the world next year. Rev. Edmonds said he feared the church accommodations were too small and that Glendale had no hotels. But Mr. Black reminded him that there were three other churches very close by the new Presbyterian edifice and said he knew the pastors and people of all of them would join most heartily and enthusiastically in helping out, while it was very certain there would be two or more big hotels in Glendale by this time next year. So all agreed and the invitation was given. Then a delegate moved that next year's meeting be held in Southern California but a leading minister of Pasadena, Rev. Freeman, at once moved to amend by saying that it be held in Glendale. The amended motion carried unanimously. So that is how it all came about.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

[By United Press]

EUREKA, Calif., Aug. 28.—The state American Legion convention called off business today long enough to make a trip to the Redwood groves.

The machinery of the convention was set in motion yesterday when committees were appointed and the business program revised.

More than 600 delegates are present.

George L. Kaeding of 227 North Central avenue, chairman of the sick and relief committee of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, is a man of action. Just recently a disabled war veteran, not a member of the American Legion, floated into Glendale on a very much "busted-up" second hand motor truck loaded with oranges and that's about all. The ex-soldier was endeavoring to sell the oranges, but his old tires blew out and he could not move on.

George stepped in at this stage, not hesitating for the reason that the ex-soldier was not a member of the American Legion, and purchased some tires for the worn out motor vehicle, as well as providing meals for two days for the ex-soldier and his wife. He then sent them on their way rejoicing.

This is just a sample of the way that the chairman of the sick and relief committee works. Nor are his activities confined to Glendale alone when it comes to helping the sick and convalescent soldier, for at the very moment George is building a croquet court at Sawtelle for the benefit of ex-soldiers stationed at that point.

Clarence L. Edwards of 369 West California street, the "pinch-hitting perfect sergeant-at-arms" of Glendale Post No. 127, is spending this week at Catalina Island looking over the Spearmint mines of Mr. [illegible] today, but to [illegible] rence is taking heart mother.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Of the many conventions and reunions subordinate to the great national convention of the American Legion, to be held in this city October 15 to 19, the annual national promenade of the Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, (40 and 8's) offers much by way of entertainment and diversion. This popular order, known as the "playground" of the legion, is to have a national convention all of its own, with a stag entertainment, promenade dances and monster initiation thrown in for good measure; and the local vioture of the 40 and 8's is striving diligently to outdo the excellent programs staged for visiting 40 and 8ers at other legion national convention cities. La Societe claims for its ranks the "live wires" of the American Legion, and its primary object is to constantly boost the legion.

Another important annual gathering to take place here a few days in advance of and during the American Legion's national convention, is the annual reunion of the Ninety First division. This great national army division, which went through the hottest campaigns of the Argonne and the final drive into Belgium in the summer and early fall of 1918, boasts of a powerful association of its veterans, Judge A. E. Graupner of San Francisco being president of the society. The association is anxious to hear from all 91st division veterans, who expect to attend its reunion, and the legion's national convention. Inquiries and communications should be addressed to Judge A. E. Graupner, 871 Mills building, San Francisco.

All inquiries dealing with the fifth annual national convention of the American Legion, should be addressed to Jos. O'Connor, executive secretary, American Legion national convention committee, Palace hotel, San Francisco. 150,000 legionnaires are expected here in October, at the big national conclave.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 28 (United Press).—A real old-fashioned barbecue with fatted steers baked in coals of fire, will form the chief course of the "big feed" that will feature the third day of the Washington State American Legion convention, held here September 13, 14, 15.

Members of the Legion Auxiliary will convene at the same time and will also participate in the barbecue and picnic, which will be held at Priest Point park. An attendance of 3000 is expected.

EUREKA, Calif., Aug. 28 (United Press). — The American Legion state convention opened here today in the auditorium of the New Masonic temple, while delegates registered at the Eureka Inn, which is headquarters for the convention. There is keen competition among delegates for the places as delegate to the national convention to be held at San Francisco early in October.

WILLARD LEARNED AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday, August 26, was the closing day of the contest of states at Central Christian church, with California to the front. Native sons and daughters to the number of 43, mostly very young folk, upheld the banner of their native state and two appropriate songs were given, "O Land of California" by Annadell Musser, and "I Love You, California," by all who could sing.

Willard Learned, who, with his young wife, Grace, leaves next Monday on the long journey to a mission station in the heart of Belgian Congo, Africa, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening. His morning subject was "Working With God," and he read that portion of the Corinthian letter in which Paul speaks of this. He said, among other things:

"It is always busy people who are called to the work in God's kingdom, for the man or woman who is not busy about his own affairs will not do his best in the Lord's work. There is need for work in His cause and much of it. The spirit of co-operation has always been marked in the Glendale church, of which I have been a member from my early youth. Some day you are going to have your own mission church in far-off Africa.

"Jesus said in that wonderful prayer in the garden of Gethsemane on the night of His betrayal, 'I would that ye all be one, as I and my Father are one, that the world may know ye are my disciples.' And the time will yet come when this prayer will be answered and the sin of division which keeps so many out of Christ's kingdom will be no more.

"It has been 2000 years since Jesus said 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature,' and yet untold millions have not yet heard the story of the pitying Christ. Are we loafing on the job?

"Your pastor and mine, Bro. Cole, has stated in this pulpit that it is his ambition that within ten years this Glendale church will be supporting a missionary in each of the ten fields covered by our people. That requires only $10,000 a year and with the growth that should come to this church in that time, such an ambition should easily be realized.

"Grace and I are proud to go as your missionaries. You'll hear from us often and we want to hear from you."

In the evening Willard gave a history of African missions in the [illegible] with interest to all.

Voice Amplifier Makes Campaign Speaking Easy

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Fewer cracked or strained voices as the result of strenuous political speaking campaigns in the 1924 elections and which at the same time may reach a much wider constituency, is seen in the applications of the loud-speaking device used so successfully by the late President Harding on his tour to Alaska.

Candidates will be enabled to address millions of citizens without vocal strain or discomfort, it is indicated, as the instrument can be installed in any location, while atmospherical conditions cannot affect its operation.

President Harding was able, without straining his voice, to make himself heard to thousands surrounding the observation end of his car. Speakers of experience have stated that ordinarily only a few hundred can hear an open-air address by the average speaker, and then they must be close.

The speech amplifying system is composed of three portable transmitters mounted on the railing of the car's observation platform; a control room in which is located the operating rack with its amplifiers and accessory apparatus; five projectors mounted in a semi-circle on a specially built extension to the observation hood, and the signal system. The sound waves of the speaker's voice are absorbed by the transmitters and conveyed by wires to the control room where they are amplified and then delivered to the projectors on the roof, which serve as megaphones in delivering the words.

The signal system is arranged so as to enable the audience observer and the platform and control operators to converse by signals. If the observer in the crowd thinks additional volume is needed he signals the platform man, who makes the desired changes.

PEOPLE ENJOYING 'TEA WITH A KICK'

The crowds flocking to the Glendale Theatre nightly are proving that the public likes its "Tea—With a Kick." From the first flashes of this 27 star comedy-drama, the house is a sea of mirth, delighted chuckles and hearty roars. There is one "kick" right after another judging from the swells of laughter which rise and fall as the picture progress, right up to the final fade out. And even after it some folks will be unable to repress a chuckle recalling some of the scenes and situations.

In this picture it is not the work of one humorous star who provides the amusement. It is the combined effort of twenty-seven of Hollywood's favorite stars and comedians, including, as advertised the ten prize winning beauties along with a ballet of one hundred Hollywood heart-palpitaters. "Tea—With a Kick" is a real stimulant to good nature.

To balance the program a comprehensive insight into the Russian conditions is presented in "Red Russia Revealed." Paul Carson at the organ follows the pictures with a pleasing musical score.

Says Piles Heal Up and Disappear Forever

Seldom Fails to Give Absolute Relief from All Pain and Suffering. Guaranteed by All Good Druggists.

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained. MOAVA is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and any sufferer from piles or hemorrhoids who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

Willard and Grace Learned Receiving Many Loving Gifts

Members of Glendale Central Christian church, especially the young folk have been vying with each other the past few days in providing generously for Willard and Grace Learned, the young representatives of the church who start next Monday to a mission station in the heart of Africa. A fine Brunswick phonograph was purchased for them and one night last week a record shower was held by the Live Cole class yielding a large number of beautiful records. A bountiful supply of silverware has been given them, also a purse of money—nearly $200. Many other articles of comfort are being provided, also.

On Thursday evening a farewell reception is to be given them in the social hall of the church and it is hoped every member will be there to bid them farewell, also all of their friends outside the church who so wish.

Willard fairly grew up in the Glendale church, joining when a small child and the same can be said of his devoted young wife, who was Miss Grace Utter, fourth daughter of Rev. J. W. Utter, founder and first pastor of the church, which he served for five years. She and Willard were child sweethearts and the affection of their youthful days has grown into the enduring love which welds their lives as one.

They are rejoicing over this opportunity to go to the far mission field to give their lives for the cause of Christ and have studied hard for several years to fit themselves for the task. Mrs. Learned's oldest sister, Mrs. Evelyn Utter Pearson, has been for several years a missionary to the same field where she and Willard are going.

My Hair Today

Is finer than 40 years ago

By EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

My hair is the envy of thousands who see it, on the stage and elsewhere. It is heavy, silky, lustrous, with not a touch of gray. I have never had falling hair or dandruff.

Mine is a grandmother's age. I have been 32 years a stage star. Yet my hair grows more luxuriant every year.

I found in France many years ago the greatest hair help in existence. My mother used it, and she died at the age of 57 with hair like mine today. Many of my friends have used it, and they all have beautiful hair. Now by countless requests, I am placing this formula within every woman's reach.

What experts said

Those French experts told me to cultivate my scalp. To stimulate and fertilize it daily. To keep it free from hardened oil and dandruff, which stifles the hair roots. Hair cannot thrive or keep its color unless this is done.

They gave me a formula which had been perfected by long research and experiment. And I never found anyone who, in other ways, has obtained such fine results.

I use eye dropper

I call this formula my Hair Youth. I apply it every day with an eye-dropper—just enough to dampen the scalp. This takes but a minute, and it does not muss the hair.

It is harmless but effective. It does not affect the hair's color, nor any artificial color. It simply cultivates the scalp, attacks hardened oil and dandruff, frees and stimulates the roots.

I would not take a fortune for what it did for me. And I believe that any man or woman who employs it will gain rich rewards.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 with eye dropper. Also my Youth Cream, based on lemon and strawberry. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay. My Beauty Book comes with each.

If your hair needs help, as all hair does, let my Hair Youth bring it to you.—Edna Wallace Hopper, business Address, Waukesha.

The little boy with the rather grubby face was crying lustily in the street, when a kind old lady, who happened to be passing, stopped and asked him the cause of his grief.

"Boo-hoo! 'Cause I've lost a penny," was the tearful rejoinder. "Mother gave it to me and I can't find it anywhere."

"Ah, never mind," said the kind old soul, as she took her purse out of her pocket. "Here's another penny for you."

The child instantly stopped his bawling and took the penny in his grimy hand. The old lady passed on, but she had not gone far when she heard howls louder than ever coming from the boy. Retracing her steps she asked the reason of his renewed lamentations.

"I'm crying 'cause—'cause if I hadn't lost that first penny I should have had two now!"

VAUDEVILLE AND DALTON AT T. D. & L.

Who wouldn't be a motion picture star? Very frequently they are required to risk their lives during the filming of production, as did Dorothy Dalton in the making of her latest Paramount picture, "Dark Secrets," which opens at the T. D. & L. theatre tomorrow.

In this photoplay Miss Dalton rides a magnificent, though somewhat frisky, Bedouin horse in a race at a fashionable horse show at Madison Square Garden in New York city. The horse, taking a hurdle, throws the girl, and in the picture she suffers a spinal injury, the undoing of which is the theme of the photoplay.

WEDNESDAY VAUDEVILLE

Burt Earl and his Banjophiends and Band, a Pantages headliner.

Tom Calloway, songologist and dark jester, Orpheum circuit.

The Ramsdells and Deyo, different dancing, Orpheum.

Harry Coleman, Pantages, ventriloquial novelty.

Josephine and Davis, comedy singing creation.

"BURN THIS LETTER"

There was one presidential campaign—it was long ago, but the middle-aged recall it—when the words "Burn this letter" became famous. The instruction was recognized as a familiar postscript characterizing the missives of a statesman in many respects great. The fact that he was so fearful that what he wrote would become known, was more damaging than the matter to which the numerous postscripts referred. The public jumped to the conclusion that the stuff must be bad, taking its hint from the postscripts. But some of the letters if once reduced to ashes, would have been far more helpful to the author of them, than they were in the form in which they came to light.

Modern statesmen seem to have missed the chance to draw instruction from the experience of statesmen gone before. Had they done so they would have refrained from committing to paper any expressions of sentiment that, being dragged to the light, would have caused them to blush and bluster. Bitter thoughts, even foolish thoughts well up in the mind of the politician. He yields to the urge to set them down, making them of record, and then when a hostile eye falls upon the record, he repines, too late.

Perhaps if a politician cannot refrain from having confidents, it would be wise for him to ascertain whether the men he thus honors, have a set of confidents to whom they will pass the information. Or it may be that having written the confidential letter, thus eating the splenetic impulse, the part of wisdom would be to tear it into small bits and drop them out of a high window.

These suggestions, due to circumstances that have lately impressed Californians, are advanced in the kindliest spirit.

THE FOUR HOUR DAY

It is easy to speculate on the coming of the time when the work of the world may be accomplished by four hours of application daily. Each is to labor for that period, the rest of the time to be his own. The conclusion seems to be reached that the condition view must be based on the existence of an ideal race. To so lighten the human task that there would remain twenty hours of each twenty-four to be devoted to rest or to pleasure, would involve changes so vast that the influence could not be estimated.

The student delving for knowledge, the wise man in his laboratory wrestling with the problems of nature, the scientist devoting himself to discovery, would resent the shortening of their labor day. The man who works with his hands, but whose mind is not cultivated, and whose tendency is not towards the finer things of life, might be in danger of deterioration. Philosophers tell of the duty of learning to think; a pleasing suggestion to such as may be equipped for it, or inclined towards it. The great majority, as at present constituted, lacks either the desire to think, or the capacity to think well.

That a man shall earn his bread seems to be a natural law. He thus feels, as he toils, that he is fulfilling his destiny, and has small inclination to rebel. If he could do his share with less protracted effort, perhaps he would be glad of it; that he would be benefited is a question. Many men are so devoted to their routine duties that the performance of them is not a hardship. Of course there are instances of gross inequality, as to hours and pay, and these make moral demand for correction without awaiting the dawn of a four-hour day.

The possibility of the proposed change lies in the perfecting of machinery. To save wear and tear upon the human mechanism, and thus to conserve health, and make life brighter, is highly desirable. But what of the millions of people left with empty hours? How would they employ their energies? Assuredly in order to do so profitably they would first have to be lifted to a plane intellectually and spiritually far above that they now occupy.

NOBLE HUMAN ATTRIBUTES

Near Riverside a baby fell into the water. After the little one sprang the young mother. Quickly following the mother was her sister. The mother herself was but seventeen, the sister a mere child.

Ronald Huber, twelve year old school boy, saw the accident. He could swim. He had courage and initiative. Leaping into the stream he rescued the baby. Then he went back to save the others. The task was too much for his strength. The frenzied mother grappled with him, robbing his willing limbs of their freedom, and the three went down to be seen no more in life.

Little Ronald was a noble lad. As they mourn for him his family may be proud of him. He showed a manliness hardly to have been expected even from an alert, spirited boy. His short career was crowned with the glory that belongs to the hero.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Almost always the quality of courage is the concomitant of other admirable attributes. A boy, to whom the passing hours must have been sweet, did not hesitate to risk a contest with death. He had much to lose, the long bright years that seemed to stretch ahead; the realization of such dreams as teem in the minds of youth.

In the presence of danger the child suddenly became the man. He laid down his life for his friends. This is the ultimate test. None may do more.

A man obtained at Brussels a passport to this country for himself, wife and child. His purpose was to become a citizen of the United States. He was a person of means and character. He had relatives of high standing in this country. Nevertheless, upon arrival he was informed that he could not land, and after detention, was sent back on the ground that the Belgian quota had been filled. A law that operates in this drastic and inelastic fashion is far from perfect.

The death of Premier Kato removed one of the really big men of Japan. He was not a favored child of fortune but had won his way by sheer merit. The beginning of his fame was in the Russo-Japanese war, which he entered as a captain, and from which he emerged as a rear admiral.

Naturally some interest will be felt in the indictment of a number of men in New York charged with defrauding the government by manipulation of surplus war supplies. However, a number of similar cases have been tried. Aside from a little passing annoyance to the defendants, and expense to the public, nothing has come of them.

The city of Los Angeles stood ready to deed 147 acres at the harbor to the government for the use of the submarine base. The proffer was declined, the base in question going to San Diego. Naturally San Pedro feels regretful at the loss of the base, but the 147 acres still are there, and are growing more valuable all the time.

Possibly Solomon's wisdom may have been acquired by association with his numerous mothers-in-law.

A woman's idea of frankness is to have some man tell her how nice he thinks she is.

A POPULAR PHOBIA

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

To compare a passion for protection to a passion for liquor will strike many tender spirits as harsh.

Nevertheless much of the world's domestic misery is directly traceable to the phobia for protection which infects parents and husbands and sometimes elder brothers and sisters.

Love for and a corresponding desire to protect the helpless are racial safeguards and they carry with them as compensatory rewards a feeling of vast satisfaction and importance which glows in the breasts of protectors as liquor glows in the veins of those whom it later destroys.

With vain and selfish mothers and fathers, husbands and brothers, protection usually [illegible] because it gives safety to the protected, but because it gives joy to the protectors, a joy not lightly yielded and too often not yielded at all, or at best only after a bitter fight.

Before women of a certain type will give up the feeling that they are necessary to their children they will sacrifice them, always insisting to the last ditch that they are considering the children and them alone.

And so we have the absurd spectacle of mothers moving in bag and baggage to take charge of the lives and homes of their married children. We have court actions instituted by successful daughters against mothers who have taken charge of their earnings during their minority and have so enjoyed this power and authority that they are determined to continue it indefinitely, even if they have to resort to perpetual "invalidism" to effect the child's waning sense of "duty."

Keeping people in cotton batting has a peculiar attraction for those who once have enjoyed the sense of power produced by wrapping it about their dependents. Protection with them becomes easily a phobia, just as it becomes a torture to those who no longer need it and who must at any cost get rid of it or face the humilating prospect of lifetimes subjection to affectionate tyranny, a tyranny made more galling by virtue of the unconscious hypocracy of the tyrant and by the public sympathy that always backs traditional infallibility. And nothing but papal judgment has ever so reveled in public approval as maternal authority exercised, rightly or wrongly in the name of love.

It is a rare parent who can witness the coming of age of a child without falling a victim to the phobia for protection that seeks to deny to the child any of the substantial rewards of majority.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The kids fell in love just like some people fall down hill. End over end. They began to flush and palpitate at the mere sight of each other. When Kitty's father and mother tore Jerry loose at night he used to patrol the elm shaded street until the light in her window went out. They were sanctified, marked, branded, emblazoned by their love. If you knew Kitty you could walk down the streets, and, on meeting a handsome stranger in a state of passionate collapse could say with certainty:

"That's Kitty's beau. He looks just like she does."

We tried to tell him—we wise, dry-headed, passionateless oldsters—that Kitty wasn't really on his street. She is pretty as a birthday watch, but she had no noticeable sense. Her only form of mental activity was in watching the movies. She giggled and chirruped and was regrettably slangy and thought Charles Dickens was a steamboat and confused Thackeray with R. Rider Haggard. Whereas he was all a young man should be. And he was ungrateful for our advice to the point of being insulting.

"They've split," said Kitty's father, sadly, to the crowd in the banker's backroom today.

They couldn't adjust. Kitty refused to let Jerry go on the road, although it is in that way that preferment lies.

"I'd never stand in your way," she used to say. "You know that. No matter how I suffered."

So, having established her unselfishness by this declaration she whined and cried until Jerry gave way. He lacked the courage to do what he knew was the right thing to do. She—a sweet, petty, spoiled little girl—lacked the courage to let her boy lover go from her side. Both were wrong, and knew it, and sought to put the blame on the other.

Nothing is quite as valuable in any relation of life as common sense. Unless it may be courage.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Darkness.
Silence.
Night.
No light, no beauty, no sensation, no motion.
Nothingness.

* * *

Eyes seeing not.
Ears hearing not.
Senses feeling not.
Not music, or poetry, or flowers or birds, or trees, or grass.
Emptiness in nothingness.

* * *

That which was taken away from you.
Yours only life without anything that life holds.
Existence reduced as nearly to zero as is possible.
A hollow entity in darkness.

* * *

Something perhaps as the chronicler had in mind when he said that darkness was on the face of the deep.
Darkness on the face of life.

* * *

And then after ages of that darkness and emptiness and hollowness, a tiny ray of light.
Coming through space and creeping in with color and beauty to where you are.
Gleaming perhaps with prismatic colors.

* * *

A tiny ray of light but changing the whole scheme of existence.
Darkness dissipated.
Eyes seeing.
And a spirit knowing what glory there is in a tiny ray of light.
And then far off somewhere the song of a bird.
And the ears hear it.
The soul is awakened to that marvelous music.
The whole being thrilled.
Just because the song of a bird sounded somewhere far off.
After ages of silence.

* * *

Then the fragrance of a flower stealing in to you.
Gracious, odorful, delightful.
The spirit of a rose or a violet.
Awakening you to delight.
After darkness and senselessness.

* * *

The more light and blades of green grass like a great rug on the ground.
More birds singing.
Flower fragrant and colorful.
Tall trees with feathery plumes.
The world illuminated with light and color and beauty.

* * *

How the long darkened soul would throb and thrill and cry out when beauty was given back to it.
Beauty and light and color and fragrance.
How the spirit would awaken to glory.

* * *

And yet every day there are those with eyes that will not see the light, and senses that will not know the glory of the simple beauty of woods and fields and sky and trees!
Ingrates.
Dullards.
Needing privation and loss to bring them to a realizing sense of beauty and happiness and light and color.

Songs of the Poets

Song—By Normal Gale

Wait but a little while—
The bird will bring
A heart in tune for melodies
Unto the spring,
Till he who's in the cedar there
Is moved to thrill a song so rare,
And pipe her fair.

Wait but a little while—
The bud will break;
The inner rose will open and glow
For summer's sake:
Fond bees will lodge within her breast
Till she herself is plucked and pressed.
Where I would rest.

Wait but a little while—
The maid will grow
Gracious with lips and hands to thee,
With breast of snow.
Today Love's mute, but time hath sown
A soul in her to match thine own,
Though yet ungrown.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE SEAT OF WAR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE Great War goes on and it is a comfort to know that we are continually gaining ground, and destroying one by one the enemy's forts and putting to rout his forces.

The Great War is between Humanity on the one hand, and Disease on the other.

The eternal conflict is between Life and Death.

Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the British government, declared the other day the cholera, typhus, typhoid, smallpox, tuberculosis and malaria have at last become controllable.

The anti-toxin treatment of diphtheria has reduced the death rate in that disease from 29.8 per cent in 1890 to 9.3 in 1922, which means that two hundred additional lives are saved in every one thousand cases.

In 1871 enteric fever claimed 374 lives in each million of the population; in 1922 only 12 in each million.

"We are living in the Golden Age of Medicine," said Sir George. "Unperceived it is rapidly changing the face of the world and the destinies of men. The extensions of the frontiers of life is assisted by fresh air and sunlight in dwellings, sanitation in workshops, wholesome water and food supply, and the isolation of infectious persons.

"The result of this is seen in the fact that every child born today has an expectation of twelve years more life than had its grandfather."

In one sense the battle of Life against Death may be considered to be always a losing one, as in the end all life must pass. But the real battle is not to abolish death, but to enable man to live out his allotted span, to enable him to ripen fully, and to fall only with the normal decay of his powers.

After all due allowance made for unpreventable accidents and diseases beyond any control, it is safe to say that a large part of the human race in each generation is destroyed by the twin monsters Ignorance and Carelessness.

All wars come under the classification of Ignorance, as they are not produced by human nature but are caused by the stupidity, blindness and madness of the ruling classes.

The real value of the medical profession is obscured because we think too much of doctors as engaged merely in the healing of disease, surgical operations and the giving of medicine. But the greatest contribution which the medical profession makes toward the welfare of the race is in the prevention of disease, in the strengthening of the resistance power of health, and in the establishing of conditions favorable to life.

Unfortunately most of this kind of work has to be done by individuals and supported by private beneficence, as no politicians have ever had sense enough to see that it was more important to protect mankind against disease than it is to protect one nation from being attacked by another.

It is too much to hope that any existing nation will have wisdom and vision enough to abandon arms and preparedness to fight other nations, and give itself over to the strengthening of life and to preparedness against the enemies of all life, Ignorance, Bigotry, Hate—the spiritual as well as the physical diseases.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

GENTILITY AND WAGES

[New York Mail]

There is something a little pathetic in that story, in a news article on bank clerks' pay, about the clerk who was offered $500 more a year by a mercantile house, which he refused. A superior had felt sorry for the young man, the tale goes, and not only advised him to quit his $2000 a year job for the higher salary but actually negotiated the new one. He was to be a shipping clerk and the $2500 was to be increased to $2700 in six months.

Next day the young man reported that he had decided to remain where he was. He and his wife had talked things over, he explained, and they had decided that his position with the bank was very "genteel."

Unfortunately the sequel is not related. This is to be regretted. One feels a little sorry for the poor young man, of course, but the major interest immediately shifts to his superior officer. What one would like to know is what he did about it. What one hopes is that he was honest enough and friendly enough to the young man to fire him on the spot—to kick him upstairs, as it were.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

It seems peculiar to read that by injunction the I. W. W. have been restrained from breaking the laws touching their specialty of sabotage. Not that it is strange that any court of jurisdiction should be inclined to issue such a paper, if the issuance could accomplish anything.

Sabotage, and kindred activities, are succinctly forbidden by law. The social elements prone not to respect the law, and undeterred by its penalties, may respect the injunction; at least this must be the judicial theory. Or perhaps offenders would incur a double set of penalties. This might tend to make them cautious.

When any gang of outlaws threatens to institute a reign of terror, as has been threatened many times, just now at Sacramento, it is well to let them understand that they have planned a job too big for them. If an injunction be helpful in this respect, decent citizenship certainly will endorse the injunction. The thought that comes to mind is that against actual or potentioal criminals an injunction could not have more influence than a written law and a policeman.

Dr. Hilferding has startled Germany by his plan of a "brutal and ruthless" system of taxation. These are his own words of description. Observed at this distance it would seem to be a bold scheme to be undertaken just when there is so much hinting over there at the likelihood of civil war.

Extended as have been reports touching German conditions, the world outside knows little concerning the administration of that country's internal affairs. It seems probable that Hilferding has contrived nothing more brutal and ruthless than the methods of some of the millionaires of his stricken land.

Prophets of woe foretell a Russian and Teuton alliance to attack West Europe.

Doubtless there are elements in both peoples that would welcome such combination and laud its purpose. But Russia is not a nation just now in the accepted sense, and Germany is under a serious handicap. Moreover, it hardly could be considered that either power had any reason to trust the other.

There have been a large number of crimes against women of late. To permit such crimes to go unpunished is a certain recipe for instituting lynch law.

The community stands pretty well the operation of being robbed by bandits, raided by burglars, and swindled by confidence men, but when its women are not protected, it is likely to be stirred to wrath.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE DIRECT CHILD

A child is very direct, straightforward, concrete in his thinking. There is nothing subtle about him. To think is to act and act with directness. Often this gets him into trouble with his more indirect, more sophisticated elders.

Tad comes in with the signs of recent battle upon him. "You've been fighting again. How often must I tell you that it is horrid to fight? Dogs and cats are about the only creatures that can't get on without fighting every time they meet. Who was it this time?"

"Aw, Billy Munster got fresh and called me names and I give him a punch in the nose."

"That's no way to settle things. Suppose he did call you names? Wasn't there any other way to settle it but punching one another?"

"Nope. He called me names and I settled him with a punch on the snoot and he stopped. What else could I do?"

Nellie is told that she must be generous. "It isn't nice to keep all those lovely things to yourself. When you find that you have two or three dolls or books or toys of the same kind, give them to one of your friends who hasn't that kind. Or to some poor child who has none. One of a sort is enough."

Now Nellie got a new hat and she didn't like it a bit. It had poppoes around the brim and she didn't like poppies. She liked the old hat with the pink and blue forget-me-nots and the loud black velvet streamers. She remembered her mother's remarks about generosity. She had two hats. One was enough. The second was too many so she gave it away.

"I gave the little girl on the corner my hat with the poppies. I had two, you know. I didn't care for that one very much so I just thought she might as well have it."

Telling the truth becomes to their minds the saying of whatever comes into their heads to the person concerned.

"How do you like my new hat?" said the gushing visitor.

"I think it's awful and so does mother," returned Peggy calmly. "The feather sticking up behind looks just like the tail of a rooster."

The children are not ready for abstract types of conduct. They know nothing about the fine shadings of courtesy and expediency and diplomacy. It is useless to talk to them about being generous and expect them to be so except in the most direct sense, or truthful and expect them to be otherwise than blunt, or meek and forgiving and expect them to be other than doormats or swift avengers.

Example is the best teacher of right conduct and patience the best adviser to much tried parents.

PRESIDING ELDER VISITS BROADWAY M. E. CHURCH

Rev. S. H. Werlein, presiding elder of the Los Angeles district of the Methodist Episcopal church south, occupied the pulpit yesterday at the Broadway Methodist church. Dr. Werlein used for his text Numbers 10:29, "Come Thou with us, and we will do thee good," and delivered a strong, forceful sermon. He clearly emphasized the church's opportunity and duty to extend its best efforts to redeem a lost world. "If any people on earth can use the language of the text," he said, "surely it is the church of the living God, and should be justified in so doing by putting forth all its vigor and energy to extend the kingdom of God among men."

"'Come with us and we will do thee good' is not only an invitation, but an expression of help and joy. The Spirit and the Bride say 'come,' and again, 'He that cometh unto Me I will in nowise cast out.' Many speak of the church in great reverence which is very proper, but first of all we should listen to what God says, even in preference to what the church says.

"However she can, and it is her duty, to bring a lost brother to Christ. The church extends many helpful and pleasant features—social benefits; lasting friendships and even business opportunities. But I have a feeling of contempt and protest for those who will use healing and the church to draw people to them for selfish gain.

"When we preach the gospel of Jesus Christ we do not preach theory, but something that is a tangible fact, and our efforts should be propmeted not by what we think we can get out of it, but by the good we can give out to others. The church speaks to the indifferent and to the un-godly. It spoke to the dying thief on the cross; it speaks to the aged and to the young, to the sorrowing, to the infirm; in fact it says 'come' to every man. Through the church love will eventually take the place of hatred, and racial prejudice will give way to kindness."

The speaker deplored the fact that our nation, blessed with peace and plenty, is inclined to turn a deaf ear to the earnest pleadings for help of the statesmen of the European nations, who look to this country for guidance and leadership to lead them out of their deplorable chaotic condition.

"It is not financial help I speak of entirely," he said, "but assistance that will guide them from the [illegible] their very existence. Our people do not seem to have the slightest conception of the terrible catastrophe that is about to occur, but the time will surely come when we will be affected by it. For our own sakes, for the sake of humanity, and for the sake of the kingdom of God, let the church, as never before, put forth her best efforts to rescue a dying world, whose very existence is in the balance. The church is the only power on the earth that can assure peace among men. Wreck and ruin await us, and the human family may be obliterated from the face of the earth, unless the nations come to the Son of God."

DEDICATE HUGE MORMON TEMPLE

[By Associated Press]

CARDSTOWN, Alberta, Canada, Aug. 28.—The newly completed Mormon temple, often referred to as "The Great White Temple," the first of its kind to be erected on British soil, will be dedicated here today, according to announcement by President Heber J. Grant, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

It was in 1887 that a band of Mormons, under the leadership of Charles Ora Card, left Logan, Utah, for Alberta, and formed the now prosperous Mormon colony in that vicinity.

The new Cardston temple cost in the neighborhood of $1.000,000 The building proper is lifted up by an artistic retaining wall covering a space of 235 feet each way and the temple itself measures 165 feet each way. It is 110 feet high and the walls are three feet thick, built of the finest Kootenay, British Columbia, granite, reinforced with a labyrinth of steel wires.

Surrounding the temple is a garden from any part of which a fine view of the surrounding country may be obtained, the mountains, both of Alberta and Montana Rockies, being sharply outlined against the horizon.

Mormon temples are for the solemnization of the higher rites of the church only and this accounts for the absence of an assembly room or auditorium in the Cardston temple. The different chambers are for ceremonials, baptisms for the dead, sealings for the living and the dead, marriages for time and eternity, ordination and other sacred ordinances.

The dedication ceremonies for the Cardston temple are expected to last a week. If the same procedure as was the case when the now famous Salt Lake City temple was completed is carried out, the Cardston temple, a few days before the start of the dedication rites, will be open to the general public, Mormons and others alike, who will be admitted to inspect the building, but after that it will be closed to outsiders and every care taken to preserve its sanctity.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bruce of East Mayfield avenue motored to San Francisco for a two weeks' stay.

BROTHERHOOD HEARS OF PAUL

The Presbyterian Brotherhood Bible class still retains a high pitch of interest and there was the usual good attendance at 9:30 Sunday morning at the council rooms of the city hall, President W. A. Horne being in charge. Keith L. Brooks, the class teacher, spoke on Paul's experiences at Corinth and Ephesus, based on the 18th and 19th chapters of the Acts.

Corinth claims distinction as the residence of the apostle during his most critical contest for the faith, the place where he wrote his first apostolic letters and the place to which he addressed two epistles containing the fullest directions on Christian faith and practice. We felt sorry for Paul when he left Athens, mocked by the cultured philosophers. At Athens he made little headway, but he learned a great lesson in the art of preaching, and preached better at Corinth. In Athens he did not preach an evangelistic sermon. He got up an argument from a philosophical standpoint to answer the highbrows. As he walked the forty miles to Corinth, he must have said to himself, "I am done with that kind of preaching," for when he later wrote the Corinthians, he said, "When I came to you, I came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God, for I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified." His visit to Athens was not in vain. His scientific sermon was laughed at, but his sermon on Christ, and Him crucified, brought great results.

At Corinth, Paul found Aquila and Priscilla, into whose home he went during his stay there. They were both tent-makers, as was Paul himself, and so Paul worked with them at their craft to support himself while he preached the Gospel. According to Jewish law, if a man did not bring up his son to some trade, he was said to bring him up to be a thief. I am in favor of preachers knowing how to do something beside preach. I have known some who could not drive a nail to hang a picture without making the wall look as though the plaster had been gone over with a garden rake. Paul would not give occasion to sharp-eyed Greeks to charge him with being a grafter.

When Paul came to Ephesus, he came upon a company of believers who knew nothing but the message of John the Baptist, and had not received the Holy Spirit. Paul was a penetrating observer. He missed a certain light in their faces. What would he say to us? According to the Revised Version, he put the question to them, "Did ye receive the Holy Spirit when ye believed?" It was not a question of whether they received the Spirit at some time subsequent to believing, but whether, on the occasion of believing, they had received the Spirit's witness. According to the plain teaching of the New Testament, no person can truly believe without receiving the Spirit, but under John's baptism this was possible, for the Holy Spirit was not yet given. Their answer was, "We did not so much as hear whether the Holy Spirit was given." Then it came out that they had received John's baptism, but knew nothing more. John's baptism was a washing symbolical of repentance, which he preached. Baptism in the name of Christ is a pledge of the covenant of salvation, the outward seal of having been saved through Christ's finished work.

Special miracles were wrought by Paul in Ephesus. Many brought handkerchiefs and aprons to be blessed and these, when laid upon the sick, brought healing. No other miracles of this kind are recorded. The unusual form was evidently adapted to meet the superstitions of Ephesus, refuting their magic arts and challenging comparison with the professed healings of fakirs. The method was not recommended by Paul, nor was it necessary. It was a peculiar idea of their own, and because of the reality of their faith God did not suffer it to lose its reward.

We next read of roaming fakirs who tried to imitate Paul's miracles and tried to gain credit to themselves by using the names of Jesus and Paul in their incantations. When one of these fakirs attempted to cure a demon-possessed man, the man turned upon him, crying, "Jesus I know, and Paul I know, but who are you?" And the man then leaped upon the healer and tore his clothes to shreds. This is the answer the world still gives to a ministry that is simply fooling with sacred phrases. The critics are bound to have their words thrown back in their faces and they ought to be twitted with their failure to save men from sin. It is far easier to do a trick, say a few words in a sanctimonious tone with the eyes rolled up to heaven, than to be a true servant of God filled with His Holy Spirit. The fake healers fled. They had made a bad mess of their imitation. The reason for their failure is shown in the words, "They took it upon them to do these things." In other words, they got into Christian work in the wrong way. They knew nothing about the name they used. To preach the Christ of another man is to invariably make failure. It must be a Christ born in the preacher's own heart. That is the only preaching the world wants to hear. The world will laugh even at those contending for orthodoxy if they deal in mere abstract propositions, without having the love of Christ. Christian fundamentals need to be incarnated in personal likeness to Christ

FAMILY PRAYERS AS GOOD FORM OF BUSINESS

Notwithstanding that it is the vacation period, the meetings of the Glendale Presbyterian Senior C. E. society are very interesting and well attended. Sunday evening the society discussed "Lessons in the School of Prayer" under the leadership of H. H. Wiebe. Prayer was presented in its relation to the life of the individual, in its aspect as a vital power in the family circle, in its relation to business life, and to the life of America as a nation. One prominent business man emphasized the helpfulness of prayer in the settlement of trade "kicks," and of disagreements among his employes. Another quoted an editorial printed some time ago in the Wall Street Journal, that leading financial newspaper in the greatest money center of the world. The present editor of the Journal, after reading the article, remarked, "I am sorry that I cannot say that I wrote it. It is sound doctrine." As the paragraph seems to apply so accurately to the needs of America today, it is given here in full:

"What America needs more than railway extension, and a low tarrif, and a bigger wheat crop, and a merchant marine and a new navy, is a revival of piety, the kind mother and father used to have—piety that counted it good business to stop for daily family prayers before breakfast, right in the middle of the harvest; that quit work a half hour earlier Thursday night, so as to get the chores done and go to the prayer meeting; that borrowed money to pay the preacher's salary and prayer fervently in secret for the salvation of the rich man who looked with scorn on such unbusiness-like behavior. That's what we need now to clean this country of the filth of graft, and of greed, petty and big; or worship of fine houses and big lands and high office and grand social functions. What is this thing which we are worshipping but a vain repetition of what decayed nations fell down and worshipped just before their light went out? Read the history of Rome in decay and you'll find luxury there that could lay a big dollar over our little doughnut that looks so large to us. Great wealth never made a nation substantial nor honorable. There is nothing on earth that looks good that is so dangerous for a man or a nation to handle as quick, easy, big money. If you do resist its deadly influence the chances are that it will get your son. It takes greater and finer heroism to dare to be poor in America than to charge an earthworks in Manchuria."

Next Sunday evening at 6:15 the society will consider "A Singing Usalm" under the leadership of Mr. J. E. Ware.

HISTORICAL DATA ON ANTARCTIC IS AIM OF EXPEDITION

[By Associated Press]

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 27.—What is claimed to be the longest and most extensive natural history expedition ever undertaken will be started in September under the direction of George Finlay Simmons, Texas naturalist. The expedition, which is sponsored by the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, will cover approximately 25,000 miles and will be in progress for two years.

The expedition will leave New London, Conn., early in September on a specially equipped schooner, commanded by George Comber, who commanded the McMillan Relief Expedition in 1917. The party will visit many volcanic islands and wild regions in the Antarctic and Indian oceans.

After leaving New London, the first landing of the expedition will be St. Paul rocks off the coast of Brazil. From there the course will lead directly south into the land of the Antarctic. Investigations will be made and specimens of bird and other life collected on the South Georgia Island, Sandwich and Latter Islands. The last group is covered with ice and snow throughout the year and frequently visited by volcanic eruptions, it is stated.

After visiting several groups of islands in the Antarctic region, the party will move to Cape Town, Africa. The winter season will be spent in Africa. Expeditions will be made into the mainland along the west African coast and visits to St. Helena and Ascension Islands in the middle Atlantic.

On approach of the Arctic summer, the naturalists will go into the southern part of the Indian ocean. Life on the Crozet, Desolation and Kerguelen Islands will be studied. An effort will be made to get specimens of the giant sea elephant of the Antarctic region

The expedition party will include more than fifteen recognized naturalists. Director Simmons recently was named as curator of birds and mammals of the Cleveland museum. He has attained distinction through investigations of bird life on gulf islands off the Texas coast. Formerly he was instructor in the University of Texas here.

Specimens obtained on the expedition will be brought to the Cleveland museum and to the American museum of natural history of New York, which is co-operating in the excursion, according to Mr. Simmons.

MAN DETERMINES LIFE BY OBJECT

Rev. Louis Tinning, the assistant pastor, spoke at the Glendale Presbyterian church yesterday mornig. He spoke on Phil. 1:21 and used as his subject, "The Life that is Christ." He said that man is the most wonderful of all the beings God has created. He has been given power over nature and has used this power and developed it in a most wonderful manner. Man possesses reason which lifts him far above any other created animal. But man's chief claim to superiority lies in the possession of a spirit nature. He possesses possibilities of development far beyond the power of man to conceive.

Man can determine the character of hi own life. He can make it a wilderness waste or a veritable garden of the Lord. He can be a materialist, seeing only matter and nothing spiritual. He can be an atheist as if there were no God. He can be an agnostic and say "I do not know if there be a God." Or he can be a Christian whose one object is to live Christ. What he is to be he must decide. He may kindle a fire in his own soul that will outburn the stars or that will perish when his earthly life ends.

Man determines the character of his life by the object upon which he sets his supreme love. The object of his supreme love is the master of his life. If he loves money it masters him. There is no mightier power. Man's choicest interests are often sacrificed on the alter of money. Or if he love pleasure, it masters him. Multitudes are swayed by this love. They have no care for the truer delights of the soul. They find their highest gratification in the things of sense and not in the things of his life. For him he would sacrifice all things, yes, even life itself.

If Christ is the object of his supreme love then he has chosen's life's highest ideal. The choice of a high ideal is the first step in the way of success. The young man starting in business or art should put the highest principles before him. He must study the masters in his line. To choose less than Jesus Christ is to court failure at the very outset. Who loves Christ supremely is the noblest man in God's esteem.

Who chooses Christ as his life ideal should press toward the attainment of his ideal. Men are urged to set before them ideals which they can never hope to attain. It is better to aim high and fail than ure but low ai mis crime. The more men seek to attain their ideal the more nearly do they approach it. To follow Christ is to become more and more like Him until at last we stand in His presence perfect. To become like Christ he must be believed, His spirit must be imbibed, His footsteps followed and His teachings lived. Where Christ is the ideal He controls whether it be in business, in society, in the home or the individual life. Life without Him is a failure. Life in Christ is lived on the highest plane possible for men to place before them.

TULE LAKE NOW IN DRY COLUMN

[By Associated Press]

KLAMATH FALLS, Oregon, Aug. 28.—Tule Lake, only a few years ago a body of water covering over 100 square miles, will be entirely dry before the end of this month.

This lake by its evaporation, has exposed thousands of acres of rich land, which is rapidly being placed under irrigation with the accompanying drainage system, the work being done by the reclamation service.

Tule Lake reached its maximum size about 20 years ago, covering at that time the area where Malin is now located and reaching almost to the town of Merrill. Its size was increasing by the inflow of Lost river and also a part of the Klamath river during periods of high water.

The reclamation service first checked the inflow from the Klamath and then proceeded to divert Lost river into the Klamath, thus cutting off all but the smaller streams from the lake. Evaporation and seepage have done the rest.

In the time of General Fremont's expedition through here, May, 1846, Tule Lake was only about half the size it was at its maximum and at that time it is believed there was an outlet through the caverns of the lava beds which later filled with silt, thus causing the lake to grow in size.

RESOURCES AND LOCATION

The property of this institution, which is included in the first mortgage held by the Trustee to secure this Gold Note issue, is conservatively appraised at more than twice the amount of the mortgage.

In addition to the valuable tract on which the new buildings are now being constructed, the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Corporation owns one-third of a large block of land in the very center of the City of Glendale, appraised at $150,000, and included in this mortgage, on which is located its new hospital and maternity home, and which, at present, is the most valuable earning asset of the Corporation.

The location of the new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is all that can be desired, over twenty acres of elevated, wooded land, commanding a magnificent panorama of several hundred square miles of mountains, valleys, cities, and the distant ocean, having been secured for the new site.

'THE WAYFARER' TO OPEN SEPT. 8

Stadium Offering 43,000 Seats, With 35,000 in Reserved Section

"The Wayfarer" is to be staged in the new Los Angeles coliseum at Exposition park. The first performance is Saturday evening, September 8. There is no performance on Sunday, the 9th, but on Monday the play is resumed and will play through Saturday, September 15. There will be one performance each day, in the evening.

The stadium, as arranged for this play, will seat 43,000 persons, there being 35,000 reserved seats. The estimated cost of the production is $125,000, and it is hoped to clear $100,000, every cent of which will go to the University of Southern California to further education in Southern California.

"The Wayfarer," America's greatest passion pageant, was written by Dr. J. E. Crowther of Philadelphia. It was first produced in Columbus, Ohio, in 1919. It later played five weeks at Madison Square Garden, New York City, where half a million persons were turned away at the gates. It then went to Seattle, where it played six nights in the University of Washington stadium to 138,000 persons. It cleared $40,000 in Seattle, the money going to the University of Washington.

The play will be produced in Los Angeles on greater proportions than ever before. There will be a cast of 7,000 persons, 4,000 of whom will be in the massed chorus singing the Messiah music. Only local citizens will appear in the cast.

The stage will be the largest in the world. It will be a covered stage having a proscenium arch 90 feet high. The stage will be 150 feet wide and will be at the east end of the Coliseum facing west. Seven carloads of scenery are required for settings.

There will be an orchestra of 100 brasses. Fifteen massed bands will take part in the "March of the Nations" which concludes the pageant. In all there will be more than 10,000 pieces of costume used. Lights used in a single performance will demand enough electricity to light Hollywood all night long. Twelve big ship searchlights, the strongest lights attainable, will be used as spots.

NEEDLE WORK CLUB IS GUEST

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Koontz of 470 West Vine street entertained the members of the Navajo Needlework club and their husbands at dinner on Saturday night. Decorations of pink asters were used. Fortune telling cakes were the favors. After dinner the remainder of the evening was spent in playing "500." Prizes for high score were awarded to Mrs. F. A. Koontz and J. C. Waite.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, Freddy Louis, Miss Emily Collins, Miss Eleanore Colline, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Root and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Koontz.

MODERN MATHEMATICS

If a buzz machine that's red or blue
Costs a couple of thousand cash;
And it costs some fifty dollars, too,
When a big tire goes to smash;
If a young man sits in the driver's seat
While the engines wheeze and throb,
How soon will he get to Easy Street
On a hundred dollar job?

If white chips are one V a stack,
And the hour is half past two,
And the boys have turned the block hands back,
And the limit is one blue,
If the midnight oil holds out to turn
Till the chips in the rack are low,
Who'll be the boss of the big concern
In a couple of years or so?

If cash comes in at five a day
While ten goes out again,
If the lights are bright on the great White Way,
And we just wake up at ten
Or eleven o'clock p. m. and lead
The boys in a merry dance,
What kinds of new laws do we need
To give young men a chance?
